Dear Patient

You have requested Hepatitis B immunisation for occupational purposes to be provided by your GP surgery.

GPs do not provide an occupational health service as part of their NHS responsibility, nor can they provide this service to you even if it is funded by you.

Under Health and Safety Regulations, your employer has a duty to provide a safe working environment and, therefore, appropriate health advice for those at risk of infection with Hepatitis B. We advise you contact your employer who will be able to make arrangements with an occupational health provider for the provision of any immunisation that you may require following an appropriate assessment of the risk to which you are exposed.

If a risk assessment has identified that you are at risk of infection with Hepatitis B, we would advise that you do not carry out 'at risk' duties until you are vaccinated.

Yours faithfully
